Chief Guest Sri Chandra Sekar, Rtd Principal and Dr. K. Prabhakar Reddy, Principal of the College said that the climate change and environmental degradation have become the root cause for the violation of many human rights today in the world. We live in a world where change is inevitable but that should happen in harmony with nature.

In this 21st century the ecosystem has been disrupted to an extent that the chances of recovering the environment are slim. Apart from this there are inequalities among the people in the world in the name of religion, region, color, financial status and gender. This is decade emerging inequality in the name of transgender has set a big challenge in front of human rights. Developing sensitivity and sympathy in people is the key to promoting human rights. It's the duty of the teachers at every level to educate and empower students to understand the situation in the society and act accordingly in a progressive way towards peaceful society.
